About Us

The Universidad de Mendoza is a higher education institution of private management that is headed by a High Council made up by members of the faculty staff. From 1960, the UM is strongly committed to the academic quality achievement, scientific research and community service. Thus, within this academic environment, the UM opens its gates and generates a communication link for those who are interested in learning and those who wish to transfer knowledge.

The Universidad de Mendoza (UM) – University of Mendoza - was founded on December 1959 by the provincial governing body’s approval of its first bylaws. Classes commenced on December 1960 with the School of Law and Social Sciences, the first one in the province.

The University definite legal constitution was achieved in August 1962, and in that same the UM was accredited as a private university by the Federal Government.

Subsequently, the Government of Mendoza registered the University as a non-profit organization, and the National Secretariat of Social Promotion recognized it as a public non-profit organization.

This higher education institution is located in the heart of Mendoza city and it is considered the oldest and largest private university in the Cuyo Region.

Among its graduates, UM boasts governors, federal and provincial ministers, judges, legislators, magistrates and outstanding professionals spread out across the country and abroad.

Likewise, the UM owns a campus in San Rafael that is working since 1998 with a strong academic presence in the southern of the province.

Both, the main university campus of UM as well as San Rafael campus are composed of five Schools: Law and Social Sciences; Architecture, Urban Planning & Design; Health Sciences; Engineering, and Economic Science. More than 8,000 students are attending their classrooms. More than 900 professors are part of its faculty staff.

From its inception, the UM has taken on the enormous task about the growth, development and dissemination of scientific and cultural knowledge, mostly emphasizing on the comprehensive education of students, not only taking into account the strictly professional courses, but also including the human aspects of the teaching, like literary or environmental workshops or sporting activities among others. All this can be verified on the bylaws and on the High Council’s resolutions. Moreover, the UM is an institution committed itself with the strict application of admission procedures, academic rules, mandatory assistance and students monitoring.
Publishing Division of Universidad de Mendoza (EDIUM)

The UM owns since 1977 its own publishing division that is responsible for selecting, managing and distributing the whole material that is published at this academic institution.

EDIUM is in charge of the edition and publishing of two magazines: “Revista de la Universidad de Mendoza” – with 23 issues to this date – and “idearium” magazine belonging to the school of Law and Social Sciences. By means of the same house of publishing, more than 150 books have also been printed, some of which had wide repercussion and acceptance among readers.

As part of this university extension and diffusion task, the university took into account, from the beginning, to publish those works that translate the researches fulfilled at the UM, in order to share them with students, the scientific and university community and the society in general.
Internationalization Programs

Internationalization is for the Universidad de Mendoza a curricular and institutional process of rapprochement whose final goal is to encourage on the part of participants (students, teachers, researchers, people in general) a deep reflection about how every one’s tasks finally impacts on the social bases we belong to.

The UM understands that building better social conditions at world level is a process that needs to be nurtured by people’s experiences and considerations, within or beyond geographic boundaries of a province, state, country or region.

Internationalization Agreements

The UM boasts more than 300 effective agreements with universities from USA, Germany, Austria, Italy, Spain, France, Russia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Guatemala, Ecuador, Mexico, Peru and Paraguay among others. These programs are aimed at mobility and exchange of students, teachers, researchers and staff members. The importance of these programs lays that the participants’ educational benefit becomes immediately apparent; and this benefit is built by means not only of their academic, personal and social experiences but also of their and other’s strengths and weaknesses and of the decision of gradually becoming rather a social transformer than a passive observer.
From the vocation to the profession
Sports Campus

The Universidad de Mendoza organizes social and sports activities with the purpose to make its students to participate and to complement their academic activities with other recreational ones.

The university has opened their own sport facility with a gym at the “Ejército de Los Andes” (Andean Army) Campus, with a free and nonrestrictive access for the whole university community.

Likewise, the sporting teams belonging to the UM train at the same campus. These teams are composed of students coming from the different UM university schools.

The sport activities practiced are: volleyball (ladies/men), soccer (men), seven-a-side soccer (ladies), basketball, indoor-soccer and athletics, paddle, tennis, hockey and swimming.
Polyphonic Choir

Musical expression is part of the education, thus the Universidad de Mendoza boasts its own Polyphonic choir, conducted by the well-known Professor Ms. Silvana Vallessi and made up by students who are fan of this discipline.

Choir composed of students of the Universidad de Mendoza (CEUM) is considered one of the best choirs in Mendoza and has made presentations throughout these years with brilliant performances in other cities of the country and abroad.

The goal of this choir is to introduce the student to singing as an enrichment of their extracurricular education, putting emphasis in the student’s profile education, given that these students have no previous musical knowledge.
Universities Networks

The Universidad de Mendoza is member of the “Unión de Universidades de América Latina y el Caribe” - UDUAL – (Association of Caribbean and Latin American Universities). Also, the university is member of the “Asociación Universitaria Iberoamericana de Postgrado” - AUIP - (Spanish and Latin American Universities Association) – and the "Fundación de Cátedras Iberoamericanas".
Foreign Languages Program for students, teachers and researchers.

Foreign Language Program for students, teachers and researchers
Spanish Language Courses for foreign people
The University offers courses of Spanish Language assistance for foreign students that are achieving mobility programs at the same university. These courses are aimed at degree and postgraduate course students and researchers needing language assistance for their studies and researches. The levels offered are basic, intermediate and advanced.

Spanish Programs offered

Four Week Immersion Course: This course is designed for foreign students over 18 who are interested in learning the Spanish language and Argentine culture in order to communicate in familiar, touristic, business or study environments. It is not necessary to have previous knowledge of Spanish. The course consists of 40 hours of attendance (12 classes at campus) and 20 hours of non-attendance (work on platform moodle). Visits to a winery, stores, among others, are included.

Four-month Spanish Course: This four-month course is organized in 5 units of study with in-class attendance and online assignment work on platform. Visits to cultural places, wineries and shopping stores among others are included. Each student's learning process is monitored by means of verbal & written practical assignments and a final assignment that assesses their Spanish verbal and written skills acquired in this study program.
